SEMESTER-VII

MAJOR (MJ)

Major 14: Indian Logic

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course is designed to constructively engage students with the foundational concepts and principles of Indian Logic. It will explore the development of logical theories within classical Indian philosophy, focusing on critical components such as inference (anumāna), means of knowledge (pramāṇa), and reasoning structures. Students will actively participate in analysing Indian methods of debate, syllogisms, fallacies, and the nature of valid knowledge, while gaining a deeper understanding of how these concepts interact with Western logical traditions. Through this enriching study, participants will enhance their analytical and reasoning skills, fostering a robust appreciation for indigenous philosophical methodologies.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1	Definition and Process of Anumāna : Nyāya, Bauddha and Advaita Perspectives	08
2	Role of Parāmarśa in Anumāna : The Mīmāṃsā – Nyāya Debate	08
3	Induction in Indian Logic: Role of Pratyakṣa in Anumāna , Vyābhicārāgraha , Upādhi and Upādhinirāśa , Tarka , Sāmānyalakṣaṇa and Jñānalakṣaṇa Pratyakṣa in Vyāptigrahopāya	15
4	Definition of Vyāpti : First and Second Lakṣaṇa as in Bhasaparicheda-Siddhānta-Muktāvalī (upto rūpatvavyāpyajātimattvānprithivītvāt)	12
5	Pakṣatā Parikṣā .	05
6	Characteristics of Saddhetu and Five Types of Hetvābhāsa : Nyāya-Vaiśeṣika Perspective	12

Course Outcomes: By the end of this course, students will understand key concepts of Indian logic, especially from the Nyāya school, including means of knowledge (pramāṇa), valid knowledge (pramā), reason (hetu), and inference (anumāna). They will analyse the five-membered syllogism, compare it with Western logic, distinguish valid from fallacious reasoning (hetvābhāsa), and apply classical Indian logic to evaluate philosophical arguments. Students will engage with Indian epistemology in relation to metaphysics and language, identify parallels and differences between Indian and Western logical systems, and practice constructing coherent arguments in debates.

Major 15: Western Logic III

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course objective: This course introduces the principles and methods of Western logic, covering classical syllogistic reasoning and modern symbolic logic. It focuses on developing critical thinking skills and understanding formal logical structures, allowing students to analyse and evaluate arguments effectively.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1	The Method of Conditional Proof, Indirect Proof.	10
2	Quantification theory: Singular Proposition, General Proposition, Multiply General Propositions, Symbolisation, Revised Quantification Rules, Proving Validity and Invalidity, Logical Truth Involving Quantifiers.	20
3	Truth Tree and its Applications	10
4	Method of Resolution	10
5	Shorter Truth Table Technique: Reductio-Ad-Absurdum	10

Course Outcomes: By the end of the course, students will be able to identify and apply key concepts in both classical and modern logic, such as validity and consistency. Translate natural language arguments into formal symbolic notation. Construct formal proofs using various proof methods. Analyse argument structures using tools like truth tables and resolution. Evaluate arguments involving quantifiers and understand quantification theory. Apply logical methods to assess arguments in various contexts.

COMPULSORY RESEARCH METHODOLOGY (CRM)

[for both Hons. and Hons. with Research students]

CRM: Research Methodology and Publication Ethics

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: The course provides students with a thorough understanding of research methodology and ethical practices in academic publishing. It covers systematic research design, data collection, analysis, and interpretation while highlighting the importance of ethical standards, including plagiarism, authorship, peer review and publication integrity. The curriculum prepares students to conduct original research with academic integrity and methodology.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1	Basic Concept of Research and Research Methodology	02
2	The Distinction Between Method and Methodology	03
3	Types of Research	05
4	Methodological Issues in Philosophy (Indian: Kathā (Vāda, Jalpa, Vitandā) and Western: Conceptual Analysis, Dialectical Method)	08
5	Finding Library Resources: Computer Literacy; Using e-books; E-Journal & JSTOR	07
6	Paraphrasing Sources, Quoting Sources, Abbreviation	05
7	Bibliography: MLA and APA Formats	05
8	Punctuation, Proofreading and Diacritical Marking	05
9	How to Write a Term Paper and Project	05
10	How to Review Articles and Books	05
11	Research Ethics, Publication Ethics and Research Misconduct	05
12	Plagiarism	05

Course Outcomes: By the end of this course, students will gain a foundational understanding of research practices and academic writing. They will learn to conduct independent research using both traditional and digital resources, engage critically with scholarly materials, and apply proper academic conventions in writing and citation. The course will enhance their skills in organising and presenting research findings clearly and ethically, while also fostering an awareness of academic integrity and responsible scholarship.

MAJOR ELECTIVE (DSE)

Major Elective – 03: Indian Epistemology

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course introduces students to key theories and debates in Indian epistemology (Pramāṇa-śāstra), as developed by classical schools such as Nyāya, Mīmāṃsā, Buddhism, and Advaita Vedānta. It explores the nature, sources, and limitations of valid knowledge (pramā) through concepts like pramāṇa (means of knowledge), pramātā (knower), prameya (object of knowledge), and prāmāṇya (validity). Students will engage with various epistemological positions on perception, inference, and testimony, while critically examining the relationship between these theories and the metaphysical and logical frameworks of Indian philosophy. The course promotes analytical thinking, comparative reflection, and philosophical rigour from an indigenous perspective.

Course content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1.	Definition and Types of Pramā and Apramā : Nyāya, Bauddha, Advaita Vedānta	15
2.	Theory of Perception (Definition, Process and Types): Nyāya, Bauddha, Advaita Vedānta	15
3.	The debate on Svataḥprāmāṇyavāda and Parataḥprāmāṇyavāda (jñaptipakṣa and utpattipakṣa)	15
4.	Theories of Erroneous Perception (Khyātivāda): Ātmakhyāti , Satkhyāti , Asatkhyāti , Akhyāti , Anyathākhyāti , Viparītakhyāti , Anirvacanīyakhyāti .	15

Course Outcomes: By the end of this course, students will be able to explain key epistemological concepts in Indian philosophy, such as pramā (valid knowledge), pramāṇa (means of knowledge), pramātā (knower), and prameya (object of knowledge). Identify and compare the epistemological doctrines of major Indian philosophical schools, including Nyāya, Mīmāṃsā, Advaita Vedānta, and Buddhist epistemology. Analyse the criteria for the validity of knowledge (prāmāṇya) as debated among different traditions, such as the Nyāya theory of truth, Mīmāṃsā intrinsic validity, and Buddhist fallibilism. Evaluate the strengths and limitations of various pramāṇas, including pratyakṣa (perception), anumāna (inference), śabda (testimony), upamāna (comparison), arthāpatti (postulation), and anupalabdhi (non-cognition). Critically assess philosophical arguments concerning the nature and sources of knowledge, using textual and conceptual analysis of classical Indian texts. Demonstrate familiarity with key epistemological debates, such as realism vs. idealism, internalism vs. externalism in justification, and the role of language in knowledge. Engage in comparative reflection, articulating similarities and differences between Indian and Western epistemological approaches.

MINOR (MI)

Minor-07: Applied Ethics

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course is designed to introduce students to the key concepts and major debates within Applied Ethics. It will begin by defining the discipline's nature and scope, using core concepts like equality, racism, and affirmative action as a foundation. The curriculum will then explore the issues of the society e.g. killing, suicide and poverty etc. A significant portion of the course will be dedicated to Ethics and nature, where students will analyze contrasting perspectives like deep ecology as well as the ethical dimensions of man-animal conflict and conservation.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1.	Nature and scope of applied ethics	05
2.	Killing: Suicide, Euthanasia, Animal killing.	05
3.	Poverty, Affluence and Morality.	06
4.	War and Violence: Terrorism.	06
5.	Right: Nature and Value of Human Rights—Discrimination on the basis of race, caste and religion.	12
6.	The Ethics of Care.	06
7.	Value beyond sentient beings, Reverence for life, Deep Ecology, Concepts of Kinship Ethics.	10
8.	Ecological Concern in Indian thoughts: Jaina and Baudddha views	10

Course Outcomes: By the conclusion of this course, you will be equipped to navigate and critically analyze the most pressing ethical dilemmas of our time. Students will be able to deconstruct complex issues of equality, challenging conventional notions of justice in the face of racism and affirmative action. They will develop a sophisticated perspective on environmental ethics, moving beyond anthropocentric views to evaluate the interconnectedness of all life through concepts like ecofeminism and deep ecology. The course will empower them to ethically reason through complex bio-ethical challenges, from the morality of euthanasia and abortion to the implications of genetic engineering. Ultimately, you will be able to apply ethical principles to real-world scenarios.

SEMESTER-VIII

MAJOR (MJ)

Major 16: Western Epistemology

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course provides a thorough introduction to epistemology, focusing on key philosophical questions related to the nature, sources, and limits of human knowledge. It examines the challenge of skepticism, the definition of knowledge, and issues such as the Gettier problem and its proposed solutions. Students will explore major theories of justification, including foundationalism, coherentism, internalism, and externalism. The course will also differentiate between analytic and synthetic judgments, particularly in the context of the debate over the possibility of synthetic a priori knowledge. Furthermore, it will introduce significant developments in contemporary epistemology, such as naturalized epistemology, social epistemology, feminist epistemology, virtue epistemology, and knowledge-first approaches. The objective is to equip students with the skills to critically evaluate various theories of knowledge and understand their implications in both individual and social contexts.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1.	Possibility of Knowledge – Different Skeptical Views.	06
2.	Nature and Definition of Knowledge, Gettier Problem	05
3.	Responses to the Gettier Problem – Presence of Relevant Falsehood, Defeasibility, Reliability, Causal Theory.	10
4.	Justification - Foundationalism and Coherentism; Internalism and Externalism	08
5.	Analytic and Synthetic Judgment, The Possibility of Synthetic A Priori Judgment.	07
6.	Epistemology Naturalized - W.V.O. Quine	04

7.	Social Epistemology – Knowledge from Testimony (Reductionism Vs. Anti-Reductionism), Testimonial Injustice (Miranda Fricker)	10
8.	Preliminary Ideas about the Contemporary Developments in Epistemology: Feminist Epistemology, Virtue Epistemology, and Knowledge-First Epistemology.	10

Course Outcomes: By the end of this course, students will be able to understand and evaluate various skeptical challenges to the possibility of knowledge while articulating philosophical responses to these challenges. They will develop a thorough understanding of the classical definition of knowledge and the Gettier problem, along with key responses such as defeasibility theory, reliability, and causal accounts. Students will distinguish between and assess competing theories of epistemic justification, including foundationalism versus coherentism and internalism versus externalism. They will also engage critically with the distinction between analytic and synthetic judgments, particularly in relation to debates about synthetic a priori knowledge. Additionally, students will become familiar with contemporary epistemological frameworks, such as Quine's naturalism, social epistemology, and testimonial knowledge, as well as Miranda Fricker's concept of testimonial injustice and recent trends like feminist, virtue, and knowledge-first epistemology. Through these studies, they will enhance their ability to critically analyze epistemological arguments and apply them to broader philosophical and real-world contexts.

MAJOR ELECTIVE (DSE)

Major Elective – 04: Indian Metaphysics

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course is designed to provide students with a deep and comprehensive understanding of the foundational principles of Indian philosophy. It will meticulously unpack the core ontological framework of the Saptapadārtha, the seven categories of reality that serve as a cornerstone for many Indian philosophical systems. The curriculum will then navigate the complex landscape of theories of causation, comparing and contrasting the divergent views from fatalism and momentary existence to emergent and transformative creation. Furthermore, the course will undertake a critical examination of the concept of Īśvara, exploring the logical and metaphysical proofs for and against the existence of a supreme being. A significant portion of the course will be dedicated to a comparative study of the Ātman (self) and Manas (mind), revealing the profound and often contradictory insights of Cārvāka, Bauddha, Jaina, Nyāya, and Advaita traditions. Finally, it will conclude with an exploration of the intricate theories of space and time as articulated within the Nyāya-Vaiśeṣika school, demonstrating how these philosophical systems constructed a coherent and systematic worldview.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1	Basic Concept of Saptapadārtha	06
2	Theories of Causation: Ākasmikatāvāda , Pratītyasamutpāḍavāda , Kṣaṇabhaṅgavāda , Ārambhavāda , Pariṇā mavāda , Vivartavāda ,	12
3	The Concept of Īśvara ; Proofs for and against the Existence of Īśvara	10
4	Concept of Ātman : Cārvāka, Bauddha, Jaina, Nyāya and Advaita Vedānta	12
5	Concept of Mind (Manas): Nyāya, Vaiśeṣika, Bauddha and Advaita Vedānta	12
6	Theory of Space and Time: Nyāya-vaiśeṣika	08

VIDYASAGAR UNIVERSITY, PASCHIM MIDNAPORE, WEST BENGAL

Course Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to demonstrate a comprehensive understanding of the foundational principles of Indian philosophy. They will be able to critically analyze and differentiate between the various theories of causation, from the momentary existence of the Bauddha tradition to the transformative creation of the Sāṅkhya school. Students will also be able to articulate and evaluate the classical arguments and proofs for and against the existence of Īśvara (God). Furthermore, they will be able to compare and contrast the diverse and often contradictory concepts of Ātman (self) and Manas (Mind) as presented by the Cārvāka, Bauddha, Jaina, Nyāya, and Advaita traditions. Finally, they will be able to interpret and explain the systematic theories of Space and Time as articulated within the Nyāya-Vaiśeṣika philosophical system.

MAJOR ELECTIVE- 05
[to be studied by Honours students only]

Major Elective – 05: Western Metaphysics

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course aims to introduce students to the fundamental concepts and enduring questions of metaphysics. It will begin by defining the nature and scope of metaphysics as a philosophical discipline, exploring its historical trajectory and relevance. The curriculum will then delve into major metaphysical debates, including the problem of universals and the contrasting solutions of realism, nominalism, and conceptualism. The course will also examine the concept of substance, analyzing both Aristotle's foundational account and the challenges posed by modern bundle theories. A significant portion of the course will be dedicated to a critical study of theories of causation, comparing regularity and probabilistic models. Furthermore, the course will tackle the complex question of personal identity, investigating theories based on psychological and physical continuity. Finally, it will conclude by critically evaluating the very possibility of metaphysics itself, with a special focus on the influential views of Aristotle, Kant, and Ayer.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1	Concepts: Definition, Nature, and Scope of Metaphysics	06
2	Theories of Universal: Realism, Nominalism, Conceptualism	08
3	Substance: Aristotle's Account of Substance, Bundle Theories and Their Problems	12
4	Theories of Causation: Regularity Theories, Probabilistic Theories	10
5	Personal Identity: Concept of Personhood, Psychological Continuity, Physical Continuity Approach	12
6	The Possibility of Metaphysics with special reference to Aristotle, Kant, Ayer	10

Course Outcomes: By the end of this course, you will be able to confront the most profound questions about existence and reality. You will gain a mastery of the core concepts of metaphysics, allowing you to critically analyze the fundamental debates on the nature and scope of the discipline. You will learn to differentiate and evaluate the competing theories of universals, such as realism, nominalism, and conceptualism. The course will equip you to deconstruct Aristotle's account of substance, and then assess the challenges posed by bundle theories. You will articulate and compare the different models of cause and effect, distinguishing between regularity and probabilistic theories of causation. Finally, you will be able to evaluate the complex arguments for personal identity and critically assess the very possibility of metaphysics itself by engaging with the influential works of Aristotle, Kant, and Ayer.

MAJOR ELECTIVE- 06
[to be studied by Honours students only]

Major Elective – 06: Applied Ethics

Credit: 4

Full Marks: 75

Course Objective: This course is designed to introduce students to the key concepts and major debates within Applied Ethics. It will begin by defining the discipline's nature and scope, using core concepts like equality, racism, and affirmative action as a foundation. The curriculum will then explore the multifaceted issues of gender sensitization, equality, and justice, examining topics such as sexism, patriarchy, and the challenges. A significant portion of the course will be dedicated to Environmental Ethics, where students will analyze contrasting perspectives like anthropocentrism, deep ecology, and ecofeminism, as well as the ethical dimensions of man-animal conflict and conservation. The course will also delve into Bio-ethics, addressing critical issues such as abortion, euthanasia, surrogacy, and genetic engineering. Finally, it will cover the principles and challenges of Media Ethics—including neutrality and responsibility in both traditional and digital media - and the ethical considerations inherent in various professional fields, from academia to administration.

Course Content:

Unit	Content	Lecture (Hrs.)
1.	Definition and Nature of Applied Ethics: Meaning and Basis of Equality, Racism and Equality, Affirmative Action	06
2.	Gender Sensitization, Equality and Justice: Gender Discrimination and Sexism, Patriarchy and Misogyny as Barriers to Gender Equality, Gender Based Violence and its Types, Challenges Related to Gender Identity and LGBTQ+ Rights.	12

3.	Environmental Ethics: Anthropocentrism, Non-anthropocentrism, Land Ethics, Deep Ecology, Ecofeminism, Man-animal Conflict (Animal Welfare, Animal Liberation, Animal Rights), Holism, Bio-Community and Conservation, Appreciation and Preservation of the Planet, Future Generation.	12
4.	Bio-ethics: Physician-Patient Relationship, Ethics and Biopolitics, Abortion, Euthanasia, Surrogacy, Genetic Engineering, Organ Transplantations,	10
5.	Media Ethics: Definition, Types (Traditional and Digital), Freedom and Responsibility, Neutrality and Objectivity, Non-media Personal and Society.	12
6.	Professional Ethics: Administrative Ethics (Academic and Non-Academic), Teaching and Other Professions	08

Course Outcomes: By the conclusion of this course, you will be equipped to navigate and critically analyze the most pressing ethical dilemmas of our time. Students will be able to deconstruct complex issues of equality, challenging conventional notions of justice in the face of racism and affirmative action. They will develop a sophisticated perspective on environmental ethics, moving beyond anthropocentric views to evaluate the interconnectedness of all life through concepts like ecofeminism and deep ecology. The course will empower them to ethically reason through complex bio-ethical challenges, from the morality of euthanasia and abortion to the implications of genetic engineering. Ultimately, you will be able to apply ethical principles to real-world scenarios, ensuring you can responsibly address the challenges of media and professional ethics with a sharpened sense of accountability and integrity.

PROJECT / DISSERTATION (RD)

[to be undertaken by students opting for and eligible for Hons. with Research]

DISSERTATION:

Credit: 8;

Full Marks: 150

Structure of the dissertation

Preliminary Pages

- Title Page: Includes name of the student, university, degree, and submission date.
- Certificate/Declaration: Signed statement of originality and supervisor's approval
- Abstract: A 250-350 word summary covering research problem, methodology, and core findings.
- Acknowledgements: To supervisors and others, if any.
- Table of Contents: Clear hierarchical mapping of chapters with page number
- List of Abbreviations: Specialized terms, if any

Introduction

- Background & Context: Situates the topic in historical or theoretical context.
- Research Problem & Objectives: The specific question or gap the research is addressing.
- Thesis Statement/Hypothesis: The core argument the dissertation intends to prove.
- Scope and Significance: Why the study matters.
- Literature Review & Theoretical Framework

Literature Review: Analyzes existing scholarly works to show the gap the study fills.

- Theoretical Framework: Identifies the philosophers, critics, or schools of thought shaping the analysis in the dissertation.

Methodology

- Describes how the research was conducted - Anyone or a combination of textual analysis/ archival research/ conducting interviews/ ethnographic/semi-ethno-graphic research involving both textual analysis and field visit etc.
- Thematic or Analytical Chapters

The Core Body: Usually 3 to 4 chapters focusing on the core concerns of the study.

- Structure: Each chapter introduces its specific theme, analyzes primary and secondary sources, and contributes to the overarching thesis.

Conclusion

- Summary & Synthesis: Recaps your main points without simply repeating them.

Final Verdict: Answers the research questions posed in the introduction.

Future Scope: Suggests how future scholars can build upon your work.

- Works Cited/ Reference, and/or Bibliography: A comprehensive list of all primary and secondary sources cited as per the latest MLA style.

Appendices: Transcripts, interview logs, or raw archival data, if any.
